FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.

FOSSIL CRINOID

Was it a plant or an animal? While the scientific argument rages on, the best description of the Crinoid seems to be "carnivorous sea lily." Many species of Crinoid have lived during the geologic ages; some attached themselves to the sea floor with root-like structures, while others floated free in the water.